Next!

Romania's desertion of Germany is first. Bulgaria had been expected to hold that distinction. But the order of departure is not important. Hungary and Slovakia remain to be heard from. In the north, Finland still is wavering.

No discredit is reflected on the nationals of these countries by the behavior of their governments—only on the cynical, faithless men who hold the political reins for an hour or two in history, to suit some war-maker's convenience.

In this instance, they served Adolf Hitler. They were his creatures, created in his image, serving in his shadow. But they never had more actual power than could be conferred on them by Germany's military strength; it was all they represented.

The strength is disintegrating now—disintegrating so rapidly it is almost impossible to record the details of the collapse. With Romania out of the war as an ally, Germany has lost a buffer against Russia and the source of much of its oil supply. Its troops in Greece and Yugoslavia are in danger of being cut off. Its Balkan flank has been exposed. Bulgaria cannot stay in the war without Romania—and with both gone, Greece's fate in the Balkans is sealed. Greece is redeemed, and the closing circle of Allied power is complete.

This was somewhat the way it ended 26 years ago—but the disintegration this time promises to be faster—much faster.

News Problem in Europe

Confusion over the military status of Paris after announcement of its liberation by Frenchmen had to be followed by Allied military intercession reveals a news problem which probably will get worse before it can get better. Events are following each other with bewildering speed in Europe—and the pace will be accelerated.

While military censorship will continue to regularize the flow of information by forcing it through official channels, there undoubtedly will be some occasions when important news will be made available outside official channels. For instance, developments inside Germany must reach the outside world first as unverified reports; there can be no official news from that lively source of news. Ordinary enterprise may develop stories from Allied Europe outside the cut and dried routine of official communiques.

The whole news situation will remain on the border of chaos for an indefinite time to come. It will be kept from chaos only by the experience and integrity of the thousands of highly trained men and women whose job is to overcome all difficulties to get at the truth. News, in the form that reaches newspaper readers and radio listeners in the United States, is a commodity that must be processed and distributed; European news, with communications tangled and time and space at a premium, challenges the best talents that are being applied to the task of presenting reliable information 24 hours a day, seven days a week. It is not astonishing that occasionally there is confusion—only astonishing that confusion is the rare exception.

More Than a Whistle Stop

The war news from Europe all fits into a predetermined pattern of events leading up to victory. But in the Pacific, the pattern continues to be indeterminate for the most part.

Repeated bombing raids on the Bonin Islands, however, furnish a strong clue to forthcoming events of exceedingly great importance. The raids have prompted, on Japan's part, an official warning that "the enemy is watching for an opportunity to land on our homeland."

Invasion of the Bonins, last of the island chain stretching north from the equator to Tokyo, would constitute for Japan a threat comparable to invasion of Alaska for the United States. By many, the Bonins are considered a part of the Japanese homeland. Even in the most casual estimate of their importance, they are vastly more than a whistle stop for the American express roaring toward Tokyo. In military strategy, they long have figured as the final move in "island hopping"—the takeoff point for the final assault on the Japanese mainland. As long ago as Admiral Perry's famous visit, their strategic importance was evident—both to him and the Japanese. But the Japanese secured the islands and fortified them. When they fall to the United States, the climax of the war with Japan will not be far distant. Only 600 miles north of the Bonins lies Tokyo, an easy round trip for even light bombers.

Taxpayers' Surplus Property

Estimates of the total value of surplus property to be disposed of by the federal government in the course of liquidating the national war effort when the time comes vary from 50 to 100 billion dollars. At either extreme, the estimate explains why congress will make few more important decisions than this one—and why administration of the matter will be one of the heaviest of all post-war responsibilities. The money involved represents a sizable part of the national debt.

The property represents in every case something that has been bought and paid for out of public funds. Every loss sustained in disposing of it is a direct loss to taxpayers, who must bear the consequences either as carrying charge on debt, or as repayment of principal. Obviously, there is a tremendous incentive on the other hand for prospective and actual purchasers to try to win narrow advantage in a buyer's market; they know the government either must sell at the best possible price, or lose all. At the same time, it must sell in such a way as not to paralyze some lines of business with a deluge of surplus material.

Naturally, congress is being watched closely as it prepares its legislation, but as usual the group most interested—the taxpayers—have no direct representation, except that implicit in the fact congress is elected to represent all the people, not the people with the most aggressive lobbies in Washington.

The Stars Say

For Sunday, August 27

Sunday's horoscope holds indications of disruptive and dangerous circumstances of a sudden and explosive quality. Loss, extravagance and other forms of devastating and separative forces are at work and should be circumvented by well-laid plans and clever strategies.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of sudden disruptions or reverses, influencing the financial standing, property, security, and romantic entanglements. Shun all extravagances and speculation, although there is promise of benefits and personal satisfaction in group or party gatherings. Consider plans carefully and work out strategies for safety and enduring gain.

A child born on this day may be at loss of possessions through its impetuous or speculative proclivities. It may take long chances or risks.

For Monday, August 28

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for a state of mixed influences, with much wrangling, contention, and no harmony in both business and private affairs. With tact and good grace to vanquish such bickering and disagreements there is hope of a satisfactory and productive condition in finances, business and in general plans.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year of conflicting adventures, with disagreements and strife in public, business and domestic affairs. Adherence to rules and codes, with tact and discretion the tide may turn into beneficial channels with an increase in finances, possessions and private matter happily adjusted. Be alert to duplicity and trickery.

A child born on this day may have inclination to strife and contention. It should be given early training in courtesy.

Another Reason

Police must prepare for "the bloodiest and most costly crime wave in history" after the war, Edward J. Hickey, Connecticut state police commissioner, warns, with the "ever-growing number of juvenile delinquents graduating into the criminals of tomorrow."

That is a warning which our postwar planners—federal, state, local and private—should read and heed. For it's still true that "Satan has work for idle hands to do." And it's also true that the fullest possible employment will be of more help than all the policemen in the world.

If everybody ate watermelon as they'd like to it would be a break for the laundries.

Farmers soon will be having their hay day—if they can get help to harvest it.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

MARY EXPLAINS VIEWS

Editor, The News:

There was one statement in my letter for which I wish to apologize. I will be truthful about the fact that I knew very little about the wages the men received and took it for granted that they were all paid accordingly and not the same as the girls.

I am answering Helen's first because I think it is the most important and may I say that she has won my respect and I wish her success in her undertakings. Yes, Helen I have heard the old saying you speak of and I would like to add that when a person dips into the U. S. treasury instead of his own pocket, I am not in favor of it.

Harry F. Byrd, U. S. senator from Virginia, brings us the information that in Ohio the state has 25,000 employees while the federal government has 90,000 employees in Ohio. With more than 3,000,000 civilian employees, exclusive of the army and navy, our federal government has more persons on the taxpayer's payroll than the combined total of all the employees of all 48 states plus all the employees of all the country's county and municipal governments. Fifty-five percent of those persons are not directly engaged in the war effort.

The way in which we are governed is increasingly characterized by waste, ponderous red tape, inefficiency and irresponsibility.

And now concerning the unions. I do not think that the C. I. O. will solve all the problems you think it will and there is another old saying that, "two wrongs never make a right."

I do not object to a union which will be fair to both sides such as Dillman Hand describes in these words:

"No union is likely to contribute to efficiency unless it is honestly and democratically organized and administered within itself. A 'good' union has to have two qualities. First: An internal structure which keeps power in the hands of the members and prevents gangsters and racketeers from getting control. Second: A desire not to supplant but to supplement the efforts of management."

Does the C. I. O. measure up to these standards?

Cowan, you asked me how I arrived at my conclusions about the administration and I would also like to quote from an article, "Ability, not politics, will win the war," by Robert Moses.

"This partisan hostility toward those who have criticized the Deal has run through the whole administration and poisoned many without whose help the war probably cannot be won. The attorney general has been as busy as a bee harassing great business executives over a minute of whose time should be conserved for war production. I talked recently to a man who is responsible for large war orders, and whose work has repeatedly been interrupted to defend himself and his companies against monopoly suits. These actions are so technical and so completely destructive of war production as to appear to be the work of a madman."

"The administration, which was cajoling big business, and even threatening it with most dire consequences if it did not expand and produce more war goods, was also supporting a prosecutor, Thurman Arnold, whose job it was to see that the energies of these same industrialists were frittered away in defending themselves against charges of monopoly inherent in the very expansion which the administration demanded. And the public is also becoming increasingly critical of the President's reluctance to pin failure on those responsible for them."

I also want to call your attention to a quotation concerning the C. I. O., by William E. Mullins: "I find myself represented in politics without my consent and against my will." Also that for his state of Mass., "The Political Action committee has hired as its legislative agent one Sidney S. Grant who but recently was a legislative representative for the Mass. Communist party."

He also says: "These leaders are not listening to their followers. They are telling their followers what to think, which is regular Communist totalitarian practice. Now the Political Action committee is trying to make the American labor movement into a political movement with opinions on every kind of issue, domestic and foreign. It is headed toward accomplishing just two things. One is to split the American labor movement even more than it is split now. The other is to raise up new enemies for the labor movement on utterly non-labor issues and to confront the labor movement with more opposition than it ever before faced."

Do you deny these charges? And to J. B. I want to make it clear that I have no hopes for personal gains and although I like my work and have a fine group to work with I expect to work here only for the duration. I am willing to give my position to some soldier when he gets back.

I am glad to see that Cowan uses the Bible as a reference book and I would like to say in closing that if we would all practice the Golden Rule this world would be a much more pleasant place to live.

SO THEY SAY

There, coming down the road, was what looked like an entire company of well-armed Krauts. I stopped the jeep and trained the tommygun on them. The German officer shouts "Open fire!" They opened fire right—on him. They surrendered. In one batch. —Sgt. Robert Beaton of Clinton, N. C., near Argentan, France.

GUARDING YOUR HEALTH

Pipe Dreams About Youthful Vitality

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THE OTHER night I was reading "Invitation to Health," which is the Life Extension Institute's program for restoring everybody over forty to youth and vitality. It might take as its motto Bot-tom's speech in Midsummer Night's Dream—"I have a device to make all well." In fact the book might have been called "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Incidentally there is one little error of judgment in the composition of the book: On page 180 they list the original board of directors, and, as my colleague, Miss Isabel Patterson, of the New York Herald-Tribune pointed out, and he is no deep student of medical science, nearly all the directors are dead. As I recall also the first medical director of the institute, Dr. Eugene Lyman Fish, died at a comparatively early age, around 60 right after he had written an article showing that everyone could live to be 90. It seems like bad publicity if they could do it, for the Life Extension Institute, not to have extended its life extending to its own directors.

Well, this old fellow, who has the book preparatory to reviewing it, which I did yesterday in this column, the telephone rang and an old friend of mine, aged 75, was on the other end of the line and so excited he could barely sputter and wanted to know whether I had seen Paul de Kruif's article in the Reader's Digest on Prolonging Man's Prime by the use of testosterone. You see this is the same subject as that of the Life Extension Institute.

False Hopes Well, this old fellow who has failed a good deal lately and whose arteries must be like whipcords, and who can't remember much of anything and who is deaf, but I understand won't spend the money for a hearing device though the doctors have determined he is just the right kind to have such a device do him some good. —He was all buoyed up by the hope that testosterone was going to put him back in the sophomore class. That's the pity of such announcements—they inspire a lot of jubilant hopes that must eventually be dashed.

As to testosterone, in the first place it is not new. I have a full account of it in a text book of treatment. I wrote and published in January 1943. So Paul de Kruif is not bringing any hot message to Garcia. And in the second place it does not turn old men young. Its principle value is in certain glandular troubles of young boys. The most it has ever done for old men is to mitigate the rigors of the male climacteric.

But in the meantime there is an established glandular treatment that really pays up a lot of elderly men and women, and that is thyroid extract. I asked my old friend Dr. Adrian Gibbs, a few months ago how he managed to keep so young and active and he said—"A quarter grain of thyroid extract now and then is relished by the best of men and women over 60."

Benefits of Thyroid Extract I saw another old friend of mine, not so very old either, who had been "failing." He had been to supposedly good doctors all over five states with no benefit. When I went in his office he came slowly out from his desk, with a masklike face, and a lavender flush on his skin. He smiled with his teeth, but not his eyes. He answered my questions after a pause very slowly. He was a living picture of atrophy of the thyroid gland, and none of his doctors had recognized it. An adequate daily dosage of thyroid extract has really restored his prime.

There are literally hundreds of such cases going unrecognized by good doctors too. I don't know why doctors overlook it so often; they are certainly taught about myxedema and see pictures of it in their text books. But I suppose because they are led to think it is rare they miss it. Then the patient takes such a long time to tell about it, they can't stop to listen.

WHERE DOES A JOB
COME FROM?

A job comes from a pocketbook. The bigger the pocketbook—the bigger the number of jobs.

Take right now, for example. There are more jobs than there ever have been in the history of our nation. Everybody who wants one can have one.

The pocketbook belongs to WAR . . . the biggest, most cruel war in history. War opens its pocketbook ten thousand times a day—to buy planes and ships, bombs and tanks.

War wants what millions of men can make. And in return for making, war pays well—that is in money.

"Is war the only pocketbook big enough to make jobs enough?"

No. What one big pocketbook can do—millions of small pocketbooks can do . . . without the hell of missing husbands and missing sons.

They can if the millions of people who own those pocketbooks make up their minds that part of what they earn today belongs to tomorrow—and live that way.

They can if the millions of working people who represent the great American majority make up their minds never again to leave America's prosperity up to anyone else but themselves.

They can if they realize that Uncle Sam's pocketbook cannot keep right on spilling out jobs after the war is won.

We—you, me, the neighbor next door—are the only ones who can provide those jobs, by buying Bonds which we can trade in after the war, for the things we want.

GARFIELD GRANGE MARKS 25TH YEAR

DAMASCUS, Aug. 26.—The 25th anniversary of the founding of Garfield grange was celebrated in the Grange hall Wednesday evening at an open meeting.

The session was opened by the master, Ray Goss.

Charles Mead of Salem, the only one present who helped organize the grange, was guest of honor.

"Onward Christian Soldiers" was sung while the members of the Juvenile grange presented the colors. The address of welcome was given by Olin Shoar, and a history of Garfield grange was given by Fred Israel.

Certificates Awarded
Presentation of Silver star certificates from the National grange was made to the 25-year members present. They were: Fred Israel, Harry W. Thomas, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Batzli, Mr. and Mrs. L. I. Greenwalt and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Batzli.

Roses were presented to charter members, and also to active honorary members, by Mrs. Paul Buttermore and Mrs. Verna Courtney.

Goss introduced the speaker, Rev. Russell Hoy, of Coshocton Ohio State grange chaplain, who spoke on "Benefits of the Grange. Educationally, Socially and Fraternally."

Olin Shoar told of the accomplishments of the Garfield grange. Approximately 120 were present from Smith, Dublin, Goshen and Garfield granges, Mahoning county, and a few from Columbiana county.

Announcement was made that inspection of Garfield grange will be held Sept. 27.

Lunch was served, in charge of Mrs. T. R. Somerville and Mrs. Emanuel Grise.

The hall was decorated with cut flowers.

HAYRIDE PLANNED BY GOSHEN GRANGE

Five new members were obligated in the third and fourth degrees Friday evening when Goshen grange met. They included Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Vincent, Miss Frances Hoffmaster, Clyde Hoffmaster and Fredrick Hoffmaster.

After the next meeting in two weeks the grange will go for a hayride and then hold a wiener roast at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otis A. Rhodes.

The annual inspection of Goshen grange has been set for Friday, Oct. 6, when Mahoning County Deputy Master F. C. Heintzelman will conduct it.

The following program was presented by officers: "Cunning Time," by Mrs. Elizabeth Pow, with tabular; "Home Hints for the Ladies," Mrs. L. C. Starbuck; piano solo, Miss Naomi Capel; clothes line race, won by Mrs. Alvin Carr; chicken walk, won by William Miskimins; vocal solo, Mrs. L. L. McCrea.

"He doesn't know," I slipped away at the lunch hour, when Matthew was making calls, and saw Dr. Leming. . . you know, Matthew's old Chief of Obstetrics; mine too, when I worked in the D.R."

"Well, tell him, for heaven's sake," directed Mary.

"I didn't want to upset him; he was so busy all day, so like a kid about this party; you know how he is, Mary."

"I know. He'll be delighted, of course, it's what he's wanted, and you can afford it now."

"Can we? It seems to me that we spend a good deal. Yet you're always so generous," said Irene. She looked at her mother-in-law, her blue eyes direct and troubled.

"Too generous, I think. I would have liked another year in the office. Of course I can go on, for quite a while."

"That's nonsense," declared Mary firmly, "you mustn't even consider it."

"But I do," she added, "Any way, when we get someone else I'll want to be there to train her."

Mary asked, amused, "How much training goes into that, my dear? That is, if you find a nurse who can type and keep books, as you do. . . the treatments she'll be called upon to give are in line with her original training and surely she'll

CHAPTER FOURTEEN
Mary Norman was there, and Lynn Mortimer. Mary had lost weight; she was working very hard, but her slenderness became her, and her serene face was not drawn or haggard. In the last six months her hair had started to turn gray, in little silvery streaks. Tonight, in little silvery streaks. Tonight, in little silvery streaks. Tonight, in little silvery streaks.

Kate had come to serve and Nellie's buffet supper was a masterpiece. Sam contributed the champagne. Bill brought extravagant cartons of cigarettes, and everyone was very gay.

Mary sat in a deep chair after supper and watched Irene. She looked, Mary thought, wretched. How wise, Mary told herself, that I persuaded her not to try to take over the X-ray work.

Matthew had the rugs rolled back, he was dancing to radio music with Bill's plain, pleasant girl in his arms. He was warning her, "You don't know what you're getting into. Girls who marry doctors are nuts."

"What about Hilda Morley?" "Oh, she's a bride," countered Matthew carelessly; "she hasn't discovered a single flaw, as yet." He looked over at Sam dancing with his little wife and at Bill, talking to Lynn Mortimer.

Later Matthew danced with his mother. She said quietly, as he guided her deftly about the little room, "Irene's doing too much."

Dover, Warren Softballers Down Two Salem Teams, 5 To 3

Both Local Teams Beaten In Booster Club Benefit At Reilly Before 2,000

A pair of Salem Class A softball aggregations—the Salem China and Mullins—teamed up with two out of town squads—the Dover Shenango-Penn Mold Co. outfit and the Warren YPS Mullins team—to give approximately 2,000 Salem fans a real show at Reilly stadium last night in the first of the Salem Boosters club. Both local teams were defeated 5-3, the Potters by Dover and Mullins by Warren.

Errors spelled defeat in both contests for the Salem teams as they each dropped their games in a late inning on four run spurges by the opposition.

The twin bill, the proceeds of which are marked for the Salem Boosters club treasury for service of the high school athletic program, was the most largely attended softball exhibition ever given in Salem.

The second game, between the Potters and Dover, looked like a China victory most of the way, but a bad eighth inning proved fatal for the Chinas. After leading, 3-1, from the fourth inning on, a pair of errors after two men were out set up the Dover scores.

The Potters duplicated the Dover early start by taking one marker in the first on a double by Bruce Cope that bounded off the bleachers in right field.

With the score tied 1-1, the Potters picked up walks in the fourth frame, "Lefty" Jim Simmons, having trouble with the wet ball and his own control, walked three men after an error put Fred Reese on first. Johnny Pace, first baseman and pitcher, took over the mound duties, walked one man in and then kept the China well under his thumb for the balance of the contest.

Outstanding for the Dover team, in spite of the fact that he was taken from the mound in the fourth, was Simmons, who chubbed four sharp singles in four trips to the plate. His was by far the best batting show of the evening.

The Dover runs were scored in the eighth when, with two out and nobody on, Dale Ritchie walked John Moran. Moran went to second on an error and Sharkey Kaitenbaugh made first. Both runners scored when a high, deep fly ball fell between Bruce Cope and Charlie Huffer in right-center field. Maurer, who lubbed the high safety, advanced to third on the play at the plate. He scored on another error and Andy Teglo made another when Bud Virtue lined a single to left-center.

Salem's Marty Pauline, working for Mullins on the mound, set the Warren aggregation down without much trouble until the first of the last frame. After both teams had scored one in the first, Salem got another pair in the fourth to take the lead.

The first of the seventh saw Pauline get in a tight spot on a single, a walk, a fielder's choice and another error. After one run had crossed the plate, George Tompko cracked the triple that accounted for the balance.

Francis Lanney, who relieved Pauline in the seventh, retired two men in order to end the frame. Mullins threatened mildly in the last half of the inning, but no runs materialized.

The proceeds of the evening have not been totaled but Joe Kelley, club president, said most of the tickets had been sold.

By HARRY GRAYSON, NEA Sports Editor
NEW YORK—The Browns are seventh in batting and fifth in fielding. The Browns have no outstanding player, unless you would call an and coming Vernon Stephens one.

The Browns were without a 300 hitter when Junior Stephens dropped to 297 the other afternoon. Stephens supplied a fair share of the Browns' power, but he has batted only 208 against the Yankees this season, no more than .181 in the stadium.

The Browns have fair journeymen pitchers in Bob Muncie, the amazing Jack Jakucki and the moist Nelson Potter, but there is no Tex Hughson, Hank Borowy, Hal Newhouse or Dizzy Trout on the premises.

How come then that the Browns are well on the way to their first American League pennant and an all-St. Louis World Series?

Have No Stickouts
Because the Browns have no stickouts there are no favorites, and the men perfected teamwork helping one another.

The club has balance, the most important thing in the game, and speed in the legs of Don Gutteridge, Al Zarilla, Milt B'ines, Mark Christman, Chet Laabs and pitcher Al Skyley, who is employed as a pinch runner.

The Browns have reserve strength—three catchers in Red Hayworth, Frank Mancuso and Tom Turner, two complete sets of outfielders in Gene Moore, Mike Krievich and Zarilla and Mike Chartak, Laabs and Byrnes. When a lane arm kept Stephens, the spark, out of the last Yankee series at Sportsman's Park, Floyd Baker played shortstop well enough to help the Browns to an even break, won one of the games single-handed.

Lots of Spirit
The Browns have the spirit of a college football team and are skillfully directed by Luke Sewell, ably assisted by two other former catchers, Freddie Hofmann and Zack Taylor.

Sewell learned to handle pitchers in 19 years of catching. There isn't anything about the American League the three old backstops don't know.

They laughed at Sewell for quitting a soft coaching berth in Cleveland and taking the management of the lowly and distressed Browns early in June of 1941, but he whipped them to third place in 1942, and look at them now.

No club has a greater source of player supply. No club has more good players in the Armed Forces.

The Browns and Luke Sewell won't step here.

Sergt. John Zines In Softball Tourney

Sergt. Johnny Zines, former Salem News and Recreation Class A softball pitcher, who used to work the mound for the General Fireproofing team, is home on furlough and back at his old duties.

Pitching yesterday for General Fireproofing in the Ohio state tournament in Columbus, Zines relieved Hurler Stables in the third frame and set the tough Columbus Chevrolets down without a run in four innings. The GPs lost the game, however, as Columbus had a 3-1 lead when Zines entered the game.

The Youngstown outfit must be beaten twice before being eliminated from the tournament.

GRAND AMERICAN SHOOT WON THIS TIME BY NEW MAN

Illinois Marksman Takes Top Honors; Still No Repeat Champs

By HAROLD HARRISON

VANDALIA, Aug. 26—A 45-year old Dwight, Ill. electrician who was so nervous at the finish he couldn't remember his own age reigned today as the Grand American handicap trapshoot king.

The winner of that most prized trapshooting crown was Leslie C. Jepsen, Jr., of Evanston, Ill., and F. E. Shaw of Joliet, Ill., gave Illinois three of the seven top trapshooting crowns in the 45th Annual Grand American Trapshooting tournament completed here yesterday.

Jepsen broke 97 x 100 to win the Grand American handicap. Mrs. Marker broke 90 x 100 for high score among the women. Shaw won the men's preliminary handicap Thursday.

Never A Repeat In 45 Times

Jepsen's victory in the Grand made him the 45th different champion in the 45 years the event has been contested. No person ever has won it twice and never has a big name shooter grabbed off the crown.

Jepsen had fired in only two previous Grand Americans and never before had he won a major title. The gun he used was borrowed from a friend because he broke his own two years ago.

He broke 49 of his first 50 birds and knew then he had a chance for the title. Then the pressure set in. He broke 23 of the next 25 and needed 24 of the final 25 to take the lead. The muscles in his jaw twitched and he wiped the perspiration from his hands frequently, but he broke 25 in a row to win by a two bird margin from A. G. Watson of Anderson, Ind., and N. C. Reed of Lima, both of whom finished after Jepsen. The title was figured to be worth around $3,000.

Reed Wins Second

A shoot-off gave Reed second place. He broke 22 x 25 and Watson 18 x 25.

Jepsen succeeded Jasper Rogers of Dayton, on the Grand American Handicap throne. Rogers broke 27 straight at the start of his round yesterday but then faded and finished with 86 x 100.

The other major title yesterday went to Lt. Vic Reinders of Waukesha, Wis., and Brooks field, Tex., after a shoot-off with J. K. Stark of San Antonio, Tex. They had tied with 382 x 400 but when the chips were down Reinders broke 40 straight targets while Stark missed five.

Second place among the women went to Mrs. L. H. Gambell, of Cincinnati, with 89 x 100. Charlotte (Skipper) Wankel of Wellsburg, W. Va., the defending champion, broke only 84 targets.

A total of 852 marksmen participated in the handicap.

NEW YORK—When the Yankees mopped up the Indians it was the first time in a month that they won two series in succession.

Watch and Money Stolen As Player Steals First

LYNCHBURG, Va.—They called the cops instead of the umpire to solve the stealing which went on at first base during a Piedmont league game here.

Woody Traylor, Richmond player, hit to first. Reaching the bag safely he removed his watch and a billfold containing $51 and handed them to the coach. The coach put them on the ground nearby and when Traylor returned for them they had vanished.

Barrett Says Squad Is Untried As Yet; Lots More Work Needed

With the first 1944 football game less than three weeks away, Coach Ben Barrett will start his Salem High school Quakers in scrimmage and play-running practices Monday.

After a full week of calisthenics and track work, the gridders are ready to begin study of fundamentals and plays, Barrett said, and with just a few weeks to work the squad into a functioning aggregation, he plans to start the mental and muscular drills this week.

Although the roster at Reilly stadium has grown to over 80 and some 40 or 50 more young aspirants are expected when the Junior Varsity starts its work, Barrett still is undecided about his backfield and line replacements this season.

"There's a lot of work to be done here," the coach says, "and it will take a lot of time to narrow the vastly down to final working squads."

To Issue Equipment

Practices this week have been being held in the evenings, with some of the candidates, who are not working, coming out in the morning for brief sessions.

The morning drills have been allocated to passing and kicking, along with the usual exercises. Evening sessions so far have been entirely routine workouts, with no play running started as yet.

Barrett said pads and other equipment will be issued Monday in order to get the boys equipped for the first scrimmages.

"Any boy can look good exercising and running around," Barrett said, "but after scrimmages start we can see just what material we really have out there."

TUNNEY GAVE FAN BIGGEST THRILLS

BY BERNARD GIMBEL

Gene Tunney walking out and smashing a terrific straight right to Jack Dempsey's jaw in the first round of their fight in Philadelphia, Sept. 23, 1926, gave me my biggest thrill in sports.

All of Tunney's paid advisors counseled him to get on his bicycle and stay away from the Manassa Mauler. Just before the fight Tunney and I agreed it would be better for him to —take the play away from Dempsey at the start.

Tunney did the unexpected with a vengeance when he led with his right and my eyes popped out as it landed flush on Dempsey's jaw.

That blow won the heavyweight championship. Jack Dempsey never recovered from it.

RED SOX SEEKING REVENGE IN FRAY HERE TOMORROW

Salem Will Attempt To Post Third Win Over East Liverpool

Gunning for a victory over the Salem Athletics, who have topped them in two previous encounters, the East Liverpool Red Sox—an All-Star aggregation from the Pottery City Class A loop—will appear at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at Centennial park.

Unable to touch the offerings of Walt Smith in two other tries, the Red Sox will have to put up with his hurling here again tomorrow. Smith is slated to take over the mound duties and will be helped out, should the need arise, by Al Lydick, former Columbus Red Bird hurler.

Dutch Taubler, regular Salem catcher, probably will not see any service tomorrow so his duties will be taken over by Gordy Scullion or Toughy Gaughan from Sebring.

The Red Sox, beaten just three times this year in 15 tries, lost a contest last week to the Columbiana Merchants, 8-5. The other two losses were posted by Salem.

Using Ted Railing to pitch here, the Red Sox also will employ their hard-hitting third baseman, Bob Skidmore, two weaken Salem's chances. Skidmore pounded out a single and a homer in three trips to the plate at Columbiana.

Also in the Red Sox lineup will be Frank Springer at short, Tom McDevitt in centerfield, Jim Mackey on first, Bob Ward in left, Joe Logston in the other field, Jim and Frank Burton at second and catch. Jim McNichols may see some action on the mound and Tom Donovan behind the plate.

The nine-inning contest will be one of the final home games this season for the locals.

SPECIAL FARM BARGAIN OFFERED BY A FARM SPECIALIST

102-ACRE FARM WITH TWO HOUSES

Here is one of the very best farms I have ever offered for sale. Is located on the Lincoln Highway about three miles from Lisbon and 10 miles from Salem. This land is in a very high state of cultivation. Pasture is watered by never-failing spring and stream. Fruit for home use. Excellent neighborhood. Has a nice sugar camp which means a very valuable piece of timber. Is improved with a very good 8-room house with furnace, electric and bath. Bank barn equipped with 16 stanchions and drinking cups, 2 silos, concrete milk house and other necessary outbuildings.

There is another house just east of the farm buildings. Semi-bungalow of rooms, very modern. This house has only been built about three years. Has electricity, furnace and bath. Nice laundry in cemented cellar. One care garage. Fruit and berries for home use. Beautiful shade trees and shrubbery surround this ideal home. If you do not need this extra house for your hired man, you could very easily rent this home.

This is really an outstanding farm with extra good buildings and must be seen to be appreciated. Price for entire setup only $22,000.

too, is that Kimmel (Adm. Husband E. Kimmel) was instructed to draw in the fleet, curtain air patrols and do everything else possible to dispel the notion that America was about to attack Japan. The report is that Kimmel was instructed to take all measures necessary to insure that the Japanese consulate at Honolulu would report to the Japanese government that the fleet did not contemplate any immediate action, which is—so the story goes—why some shore leaves were granted.

"Although I am a Democrat, this report and this situation transcends purely party considerations and if the story is true, some of this heat certainly should be taken off Gen. Kimmel and Gen. Short (Lt. Gen. Walter C. Short, army commander in Hawaii at the time of Pearl Harbor). On the other hand, if it is not true, then the report should be promptly scotched by an immediate and official denial here in Washington. The circulation of such reports as this is not healthy."

ODOM WOUNDED

They found four of the crew members waiting under a hedge-row, those who were able to walk having already made their way to the aid station for treatment.

"We bandaged the men up and started loading them in the ambulance," said Odom. "We had just loaded two of them when one shell landed right on the vehicle and another behind it."

"I guess I was the only one left alive. There weren't any patients to take care of, or my ambulance, for that matter, and I was pretty well shaken up by the blast myself. I still can't figure out how I escaped being blown to bits."

Recovering In England
Picked up and taken to a clearing station, Odom was removed to an evacuation hospital the same day. He remained there until Aug. 1, when he was sent to England to recuperate.

"Large supplies of plasma, penicillin and other drugs, plus the most modern equipment available make our job of caring for the wounded easy," said Lieut. Col. Arthur B. Thomas, of Pittsburgh, commanding officer of the hospital.

Son of Mrs. Elizabeth Ely, of 3803 Sixth st., S. W. Canton, Corp. Odom's wife lives in Winona.

the Pas De Calais coast which lies on the narrowest part of the English channel—an easy mark for invasion from Britain unless strongly defended. (3) He will be protecting the launching fields of the robot-bombs which are doing such terrible damage in London and in other parts of southeastern England.

ULTIMATELY—the Nazi marshal will have to continue his flight from the Somme to his own frontiers. This will mean complete abandonment of the entire coastline, throwing open to the Allies such ports as Calais, Boulogne and Dunkerque.

European observers still believe that one of Von Kluge's chief missions in holding on the Somme is to protect those launching fields for the flying bombs. The British government says the buzz-bombs are causing heavy casualties and shocking damage to property. The last official figure showed the death toll to be nearly 5,000—a total probably now surpassed—and houses are being destroyed or damaged at the rate of 17,000 every 24 hours.

The robots certainly represent one of the secret weapons upon which Hitler has been depending to break Allied morale. German propagandists also continue to urge the government more time to get other weapons into production.

Observers generally look for huge rocket bombs which probably will be fired from the mountains within the Reich itself. If and when these new horrors come on, the little robots can be dispensed with, and the Pas De Calais coast no longer will be so essential to Hitler's program.

While the Friends mission properties at Nanking and Luho, China, are occupied by Japanese soldiers the native Christians are still carrying on the work. This information was given in a report from the Foreign Missionary board Friday morning.

The treasurer's report showed that the board has a reserve fund of $50,850, almost all of which is invested in United States bonds. The board has set a goal of $75,000 to have in reserve that it may send more missionaries to the foreign fields as soon as war conditions will permit.

Miss Carrie B. Wood, Newgong, India, is enroute home on furlough, and Miss Alena Calkins, Adrian, Mich., will return to the Indian station as soon as she can obtain her British permit to enter India. Miss Calkins, with five other missionaries, Rev. and Mrs. Matti, Rev. and Mrs. DeVol, and Miss Ethel Naylor, had a part in yesterday morning's session.

Miss Anna Nixon, Friends missionary, who was enroute to India when the Japanese took Pearl Harbor, is interned at Manila.

Plan Ministers' Retirement
Prof. Byron L. Osborne, Cleveland, was named editor of the Evangelical Friend, official paper of the church. This year there were 1,530 subscriptions reported, an increase of 232 over last year.

The Yearly meeting accepted a recommendation to secure a farm or other real estate to provide a home for its retired ministers, missionaries and Christian workers. The preference for its location is Damascus or some other strong Friends community. A fund for this project has been started with a gift of $1,000 received at the 1943 session.

John O. Grafton, Cleveland, speaking on the theme, "The Church School" gave his auditors some helpful suggestions for building up a Bible school. He expressed the opinion that the requisites of a good Bible school teacher are: Knowledge, power, skill, character and vision.

Chase L. Conover, Richmond, Ind., speaking for the peace and service committee, discussed the activities of the Friends' Civilian Public Service camps.

JAILED, BOY TEARS CELL ALMOST APART

LISBON, Aug. 26.—Holding Charles Price, 16-year-old Negro youth wanted in connection with a Wellsville gas station robbery and the theft of articles from the Wellsville High school football locker, proved costly to the Wellsville police department.

The youth was taken into custody Thursday night at the request of county probation authorities and held in the Wellsville jail until yesterday morning when he was turned over to the sheriff.

During the night Price tore out the wash basin and plumbing in the cell where he was lodged, ripped pipes out of the floor and wall, smashed all the beds and used an iron bar from the beds to pry bricks out of the brick wall of the building in an effort to escape. Damage was estimated at $210 by Wellsville police who have asked County Prosecutor Frank Springer to determine whether county funds may be used to repair the damage.

The youth will be taken to the boys industrial school at Landcaster.

military operations. Very soon they may become a theater of war.

"In view of these facts I give you the following notice:

New Air Blows Due

"One: The rear communications of the remnants of the German army retreating into Germany will be subjected to bombing as devastating as that which preceded and accompanied the Allied campaign in Normandy. The people of Alsace-Lorraine, and of the Duchy of Luxembourg are hereby warned that everyone who lives or works in the vicinity of road, rail and canal communications, of military depots, camps or factories working for the Nazi war machine, must from now on reckon that they may be exposed to high level or low level air attack at any hour of the day or night. Take all precautions to protect yourself.

"Two: The Germans may attempt to force you to build emergency earthworks and fortifications. Such constructions will be areas of special danger. Therefore, in order to prevent useless civilian casualties, keep away from them, take refuge in the countryside. Take with you food, water, and warm clothing. Keep away from the Germans, and from everything that may be a target for air attack.

"Three: The people of Alsace-Lorraine and of the Duchy of Luxembourg are further warned that the Germans, in their desperation, may become guilty of crimes and atrocities. All perpetrators of such will be brought to trial. You are asked to make careful note of the circumstances in which crimes and atrocities are committed. War evidence will be accepted by the Allied judicial authorities when the time for settlement arrives."
